CHURCH OF ENGLAND TE

The annual meeting of the Church of Temperance Society was held in the Chapel last night. There was a large attendance. Private (Dr. Beaumont Smith) presided. The report, which was read by the secretary, the Rev. A. Colvin, stated that in the previous year there were at present 36 branches of the society, outside the diocese, showing a total increase of seven branches. There was a desire on the part of clergymen to establish branches in different parts of the diocese, and several such branches during various parts of the year. The society had been in existence in each living branch of the parent society, and in the societies of branches had been in existence the council greatly desired to render assistance and deputations wherever required. Should any of the members of the society connection with the Church, and, as a result, almost every meeting practical work had been neglected. The treasurer's report for the year showed that the income of the society was miserably small. Everybody knew that it was simply not possible to carry on such a considerable amount of money. One of the aggressive works in connection with the church was the council could refer with pleasure known as the "Church Home." The church was another outlet of the society which afforded a chance for the youth. August 25th pledges had been given, evidence that large numbers were reached through, year, and they hoped a good portion per influenced for good. The counsel expressed its approval of the progress of the legislation in the Parliament, the country believing, as it did, in the principle of local could not help deprecating the treatment Mr. Kilduff received during the last session of parliament. The counsel trusted that at the next meeting of the members of the Church would temperance question to the front with claiming their voting-power.

of the Church, of the commonwealth, and of our time in the present day.

The Rev. A. W. PAINE, in moving the adoption of the report, said he felt the work of the society very great. He said that he also felt about the faithfulness, and activity of the members were united to do something else than which the society had at heart. Until the

DISCOVERY OF WILD BLACKS.

The monthly meeting of the Aborigines Protection Board was held at the offices, Pitt-street, yesterday afternoon. Mr. A. M. Huttenlocher presided, and there were also present Messrs. Hill, M. L. C., and Mr. A. Berckelman (secretary).

A report was read from the officer in charge at Taramee regarding the discovery of a tribe of South Wales of a tribe of wild blacks in a perfectly nude state. The statement stated that on the 14th instant half-castes with a full-blooded aborigine

On the morning of the attack, some 200 white men, some on horseback, came upon two aborigines in the state cooking a kangaroo. On being surprised, the wild aborigines ran away, but were soon rounded up by the search party. Other traces were further search were made and two aborigines were captured. One of the tribes was a very old man named "Mooch." The tribe consisted of 30 persons—12 men, 8 and 10 children. They were totally unwarlike and without clothing of any kind. The intention was to stay with them for a while, but then bringing them on to the mission, where they were to be taught the white language. They were much pushed for water in the summer, the roots being unable to supply them with a quantity of water. For years past the police went on to say, it had been the custom that a few blacks might be sent to the far west.
